KLINGON NUMBERS

1	wa'	6	jav
2	cha'	7	Soch
3	wej	8	chorgh
4	loS	9	Hut
5	vagh	10	wa'maH

Higher numbers are formed by adding special number-forming elements to the basic set of numbers (1-9). Thus, wa'maH ten consists of wa' one plus the number- forming element for ten, maH. Counting continues as follows:

11	wa'maH wa' (that is, ten and one)
12	wa'maH cha' (that is, ten and two)

Higher numbers are based on maH ten, vatlh hundred, and SaD or SanID thousand. Both SaD and SanID are equally correct for thousand, and both are used with roughly equal frequency. It is not known why this number alone has two variants.

20	cha'maH	(that is, two tens)
30	wejmaH	(that is, three tens)
100	wa'vatlh	(that is, one hundred)
200	cha'vatlh	(that is, two hundreds)
1,000	wa'SaD or wa'SanID	(that is, one thousand)
2,000	cha'SaD or cha'SanID	(that is, two thousands)

Numbers are combined as in English:

5,347	vaghSad wejvatlh loSmaH Soch or vaghSanID wejvatlh loSmaH Soch
604	javvatlh loS
31	wejmaH wa'

Some of the number-forming elements for higher numbers are:

ten thousand	vetlh
hundred thousand	bIp
million	'uy'
Zero is	pagh.

Chant: (Klingons traditionally count in threes. It's an ancient custom, but survives in surprising places. Birds of Prey always travel in threes.)\

Wa'	cha'	wej
loS	vagh	jav
Soch	chorgh	Hut
	Wa'maH

BRIDGE GAME

   To get the words and phrases into usage, I adapted something called "The Animal Game." We play this Klingon version in two parts.

   There are from five to nine chairs in a circle, each known by their position on a Klingon bridge. The goal of the game is to respond when your chair or position is called, and then call out someone else. The Captain always starts. That person says their position – "HoD" (Captain) – and then calls someone else – perhaps "DeghwI'" (Helmsman). That position acknowledges their title, and calls someone else – "Deghwi' – mangHom" perhaps. Any position can call any other position.

   What happens is that the comfort level allows the pace to pick up, and someone eventually makes a mistake Usually a hilarious one! Freezing completely, mispronouncing, mixing two names. When a mistake is made, you then go to the lowest position, the Cadet ("mangHom"). And everyone else moves up to fill in the empty chair. Many now have new position names. The Captain then starts again.

   If the Captain makes a mistake, there is a new Cadet, and everyone moves up a chair!

   If you get really good at this, the pace is furious, the mistakes ridiculously funny, and after a while, no one can function, their ribs hurt, and the game cannot be restarted because anything at all will set everyone howling with laughter again.

   Version Two adds phrases you can say to each position. I had a lot of fun writing these up! I assumed the Cadet was absolutely useless, just for fun. You say the position name, along with one of the phrases marked there (or use all these notes and make up your own!). And then call someone else's position, and the game progresses. The idea is to have a chance to say actual phrases, test out your pronunciation, and be really supportive as everyone wrestles with a foreign language – an Alien language!

   As in,   "HoD – ya.   wIy yIcha'"
              "ya – HoD.   HoD QaQ"
              "HoD - chIjwI'.   quvHa'qanglu'law' HIjmeH"
   And etc.
